Finding Purpose Through Service

After retiring, Susana Apeles found a new sense of purpose in serving the community—read more to discover how her journey led her to PACE.

READ MORE

After retiring as a utility company Program Manager in 2016, Susana Apeles planned to travel and explore the world. However, when the pandemic disrupted those plans, she began searching for a new sense of purpose. That opportunity came when she joined PACE as an Administrative Supervisor in the Energy Department.

Her connection to PACE began years earlier when she managed PACE's Energy Savings Assistance (ESA) Program as a partner, promoting energy efficiency initiatives. But becoming an employee opened her eyes to the organization's full impact. "I was amazed to find out that there was more to PACE than just promoting energy savings," she shared. Beyond energy programs, PACE empowers communities through employment, education, housing, environmental initiatives, and business development.

Now part of the PACE team, she feels privileged to contribute to a mission that serves thousands of low-income individuals and families across L.A. County. Her journey at PACE has reinforced an important lesson: "Age doesn't matter if you have so much working experience to share, and still too many things to learn—while having fun!"

As PACE celebrates 50 years of community impact, we're honored to have dedicated employees like Susana be part of our legacy.

Lebanon is a small yet diverse country. It's approximately 160 km long and 56 km wide at its largest point, bordering Syria, Israel and the Mediterranean Sea. The predominant culture is fundamentally conservative and exhibits a great deal of respect for traditions, drawing on many Arab customs. Long-standing Islamic and Christian traditions remain deeply ingrained in social norms and expectations. However, many practices and lifestyles also reflect European influences. This is partly due to its coastline's proximity to Europe (as a key point of contact for trade between the East and West), as well as a period of French occupation in the 20th century. Ultimately, contemporary Lebanese society is highly diverse. It is common to see both traditional Lebanese attire and modern European fashions in city streets. As such, the Lebanese people are familiar with a plurality of lifestyles and
